Bell County Health Department Notices—

Animal Control

The Bell County Health Department has forwarded a warning from the Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) about the danger of Salmonella infections from African Dwarf Frogs. These frogs are common in aquariums in many households. There have been 241 cases in 42 states. Texas has had 5 cases reported that is believed from handling the frogs. People are advised to wash hands and use rubber glove when handling frogs or water in aquariums.

The Bell County Health Department has also put out a warning about an increase in rabies cases. People are warned about handling wild animals. This city requires that all dogs and cats be vaccinated against rabies and be registered with the city and provide proof of rabies vaccination each year. No rabies cases have been found in the city of Morgan's Point Resort. However, there have been two rabies cases in the Belton area.
